SOUTH ATLANTIC COAST SWEEP BY TROPICAL STORM

8 Known Dead; Heavy Rain Continues in Carolina, Georgia

(By The Associated Press)

Atlanta, Aug. 12.—Danger from the worst tropical hurricane to strike the south Atlantic coast in recent years passed today, after bringing death to at least eight persons, wrecking property, flooding highways and crippling communications.

The force of the storm spent itself inland, but heavy rains continued over Georgia and South Carolina.

Historic Charleston remained cut off from all communications after amateur radio operators were forced to abandon a station when water flooded a power-house.

Army officials at Fort McPherson, Ga., said their radio operators had received no reports of severe casualties in Charleston.

Fort Moultrie gave refuge to some 600 civilians from Sullivan's island, near Charleston, and most of the residents at other vacation resorts along the Carolina and Georgia coasts moved to points of safety ahead of the wind. Coast Guardsmen and state highway patrols raced to warn all persons in exposed areas before the hurricane struck.

Operators Forced Off Air

No word of casualties came from either Fort Screven, near Savannah, or Beaufort, S. C., where the storm and accompanying high tide struck in force. Military sources received no information of damage at the big Parris island Marine base and announced they assumed the personnel had escaped unharmed.

Six of the deaths were reported by the amateur radio operators before they were forced off the air. They said the six drowned at nearby Folly Beach when their automobile plunged from a flooded highway. A negro woman was killed by broken glass as Savannah and a man died of a heart attack when a tree blew down at his home.

A considerable portion of Charleston was under water four to six feet deep.

30,000 MAROONED

LaFayette, La., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Weary relief workers and state police guarded today against pestilence and looting in the wake of a flood over southeast Louisiana's "rice bowl" which left an estimated 30,000 persons marooned or homeless.

Torrential rains, reported as heavy as 24 inches in 24 hours in some places, followed last week's tropical hurricane which came inland near the Louisiana-Texas border.

Health authorities rushed physicians, nurses and serum to the stricken section to prevent epidemics. Drinking water was fouled and isolated reports of typhoid and diphtheria cases came from the flooded zone.

Governor Sam H. Jones, after an all-day inspection yesterday by airplane, boat and automobile, said "apparently the worst is yet to come".

State police ordered Crowley evacuated, although many residents today still clung to the upper stories of their flooded homes. Railroad flat cars and boats brought approximately 3,500 refugees here from Crowley, 20 miles away. Its normal population of 10,000 was swollen to more than 12,000 last week as waters rose.

Neutral Agency to Feed Hungry Urged

Colorado Springs, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The organization of a neutral non-governmental agency to keep 27 million people in the little countries of Europe from "wholesale starvation, death and disease" was proposed today by Herbert Hoover.

Hoover, chairman of the American relief committee in the World War, said somebody "must raise a voice for food supply during the coming winter x x x in Norway, Holland, Belgium and Poland".

The former president, who conferred with Republican presidential nominee Wendell L. Willkie here yesterday, declared that some organization must be formed "if these people are to be saved".

Hoover said in an interview earlier yesterday at Salt Lake City that funds which the occupied countries have in the United States could be used to defray costs of a relief organization.

He stressed the fact that consent of the governments of both Great Britain and Germany must be obtained before any plan could be put into operation.

Unusualities

ESTIMATE CHANGED

Fullerton, Calif., Aug. 12.—(AP)—The engraver for the new city hall cornerstone has changed his estimate of the cost.

He just learned some of the names he'll have to struggle with—Mayor Hans H. Kohlenberger, Councilman Walter M. Muckenthaler and City Clerk Fred D. Hezmalhalch.

IN WRONG FEW

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Emil Rieke thought Dan Cupid had gone haywire when they went to First Presbyterian church to attend a friend's wedding. A strange girl started down the aisle, on a strange groom's arm.

Pretending sickness, they got out just in time for the right wedding—in the Second Presbyterian church.

TROUBLE, TROUBLE

Berne, Ind., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Doan's 5-year-old son ran into triple trouble.

A cartridge thrown into an open fire struck him on the ear. That treated, Johnnie stumbled on a bumble bee's nest and was stung several times.

Crying and running to his house, he fell head-first into a bucket of paint.

SINGING THE BLUES

Lititz, Pa., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Justice of the Peace Joseph B. Herr feels he has a right to sing the blues.

In a single week he—
Skinned a shin; burned himself; tried to hoist a porch post and it fell on his foot; accidentally penned himself on his roof when a window shut down and a neighbor had to release him; was stung twice by a wasp and barely escaped a third by shedding his trousers.

HUBBY'S ERROR

Hull, Mass., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A man who mistook a submerged beer keg for his wife was wishing today that the Nantasket beach lifeguards had not bothered to "roll out the barrel".

Because when they did, in response to his cries that his wife was "drowning", she arrived safely from another part of the beach just in time to learn that he had thought the keg was she.

Spectators retreated discreetly while she shrilly told him a thing or two.

LAST CENT FOR MOVIE

Chicago, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Joseph Clifton Miller, 16-year-old McCarr, Ky. youth, spent his last 15 cents to see his first movie, but he says he isn't sorry he did it.

He appealed to police last night for a place to sleep, explaining that "I hated to spend my last money, but I sure have wanted to see a movie for a long time".

He told Sgt. Dominick Rice that he had hitch-hiked to Chicago from McCarr to find his aunt, adding that his mother and father were dead and that he had been living with his grandmother.

Sgt. Rice sent him to the juvenile home for the night after promising police aid in the hunt for his aunt.

Kentuckian Bitten
By Snake in Rites

Barbourville, Ky., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A man listed by Chief of Police Ralph Tuggle as Raymond Hayes of Harlan county was in a serious condition today from the bite of a copperhead snake suffered yesterday during religious exercises in a vacant storeroom.

Hayes and three other persons, including a woman, were under bond, Chief Tuggle said, pending a hearing Friday on charges of violating a Kentucky statute prohibiting the use of snakes in religious ceremonies.

Tuggle said the four first appeared on the courthouse square and started to hold services from the bandstand but that he halted them. The chief said they then obtained a vacant storeroom which was crowded quickly, and before police could break up the gathering Hayes had been bitten by the copperhead.

Story That William Penn Left Land in Philadelphia for Indians a Myth

Philadelphia, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The redskins own no land in Philadelphia. What's more—they want none.

Thus, today a land title attorney and an Indian welfare society official knocked the bottom out of a persistent legend that William Penn once set aside "forever" two plots in the heart of Philadelphia as a place for visiting Indians to pitch their tents.

"It's just a myth," said M. K. Sniffen, secretary of the Indian Rights Association, a national organization devoted to welfare work among the red men. Sniffen said he doubted that

SENATE LEADER WOULD HAVE MEN 44 ON REGISTER

Will Make Proposal in Senate When Draft
Bill is Debated

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, Aug. 12.—Annual registration of all men from 21 through 44, to provide an index of the industrial as well as military manpower of the nation, was proposed today by Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) to supplement conscription.

"We ought to have information on the number of men who are available for noncombatant activities, as well as those who might be called for military service," the Democratic leader told reporters.

Incorporation of Barkley's suggestion into the pending Burke-Wadsworth bill would entail some changes in the contemplated conscription plan, it was pointed out by Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.), floor manager of the measure.

The bill calls for a single registration to compile the list of men eligible for active training, although the program would remain in effect five years. Any additional registration, Sheppard said, would require new action by congress.

Under the bill as approved by the military committee, only men from 21 to 30 would have to register. Senator Burke (D-Neb.), however, has offered an amendment to increase the bracket from 21 through 44.

Minton Opposed

Barkley announced he would support Burke's amendment, but Senator Minton of Indiana, the assistant Democratic leader, enlisted among its opponents.

Minton said he thought the smaller bracket would provide a sufficiently large reservoir of manpower to meet army requirements. For this reason, he said, he could see little benefit in forcing older men to list their names.

Senate debate, resuming this afternoon, is expected to last about 10 days.

The house military committee will reopen its hearings on conscription tomorrow. On Wednesday, Chairman May (D-Ky.) said the committee would hear Secretary Knox of the navy, called at the request of some Republicans who wanted to question his statement on taking office that a land force of 300,000 men was adequate.

Witnesses Can't Come

May said that four other witnesses whom the committee had decided to hear at the same time could not come. They are former Secretary of War Woodring, former Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson, General John J. Pershing, and General Hugh Johnson.

House leaders decided to sidetrack routine business at a moment's notice this week to expedite passage of National Guard and excess profits tax legislation.

Anxious to catch up with the senate, they hope to debate by Wednesday the bill to authorize President Roosevelt to order the Guard and reserve army units into a year's active service.

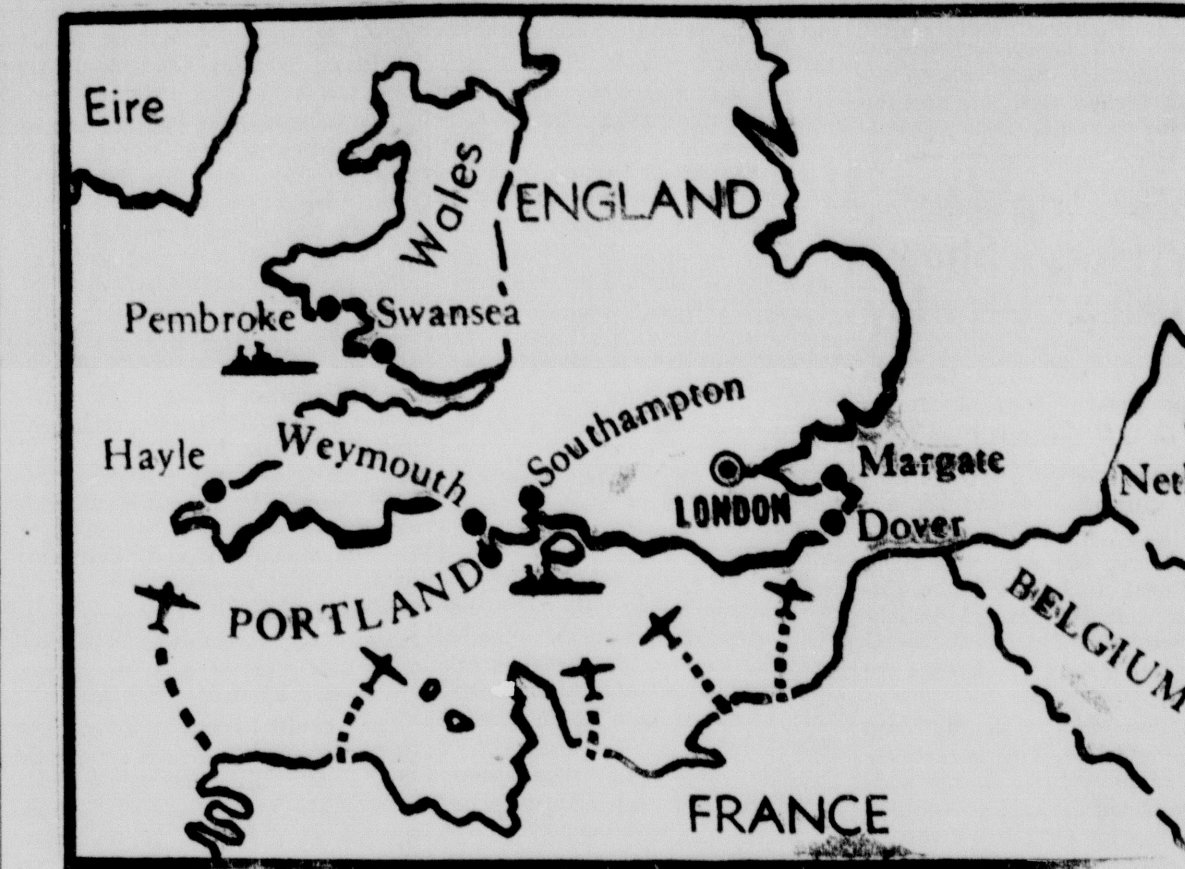

Urges Zinnia Be Made
Official GOP Flower

Chicago, Aug. 12.—(AP)—John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, turned from prosaic political affairs today to recommend the zinnia as the official flower of the Republican presidential campaign.

"What," he asked in a telegram to Homer E. Caphart, chairman of the Willkie notification ceremonies at Elwood, Ind., "could be more symbolic of Wendell Willkie than the honest zinnia—the dependable sturdy and smiling flower that never lets one down?"

He pointed out the zinnia had an additional appropriateness in that it was the official state flower of Indiana.

Son of Bureau Co. Banker Is Fatally Injured in Crash

La Porte, Ind., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Vollmer Luther, 21, son of L. H. Luther, assistant cashier of the State bank at Spring Valley, Ill., died yesterday in Fairview hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night in an automobile collision north of here.

Luther was a junior clerk employed by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, a position he took in 1937 after finishing high school. He was week-ending at a cottage near LaPorte owned by the family of a fellow employee of the Federal Reserve bank, William Blewett, 20, of Chicago.

They were in Blewett's car when it and an automobile driven by Kenneth Olson, 25, of LaPorte, collided. Blewett suffered a leg fracture and possible internal injuries and Olson also was injured.

Mount Carmel, Ill.—(AP)—A collision of two automobiles fatally injured Silas V. Culver, 45, near here Saturday. Four other persons were hurt, none seriously.

Litchfield, Ill.—(AP)—An auto-truck collision near here Sunday killed William Fries, 19-year-old Gillespie miner, and seriously injured two others.

Report of Explosion Aboard Yacht False

Detroit, Aug. 12.—(AP)—"Some one trying to be funny," a Coast Guardsman said today, was responsible for a false report yesterday that a cruiser yacht named "Lovely Lady", with 12 persons aboard had exploded Sunday a few miles off Put-in-Bay in Lake Erie.

The report spread rapidly and kept the Coast Guard busy for several hours but the investigation finally was abandoned when the Guardsmen became convinced it was unfounded.

A man identifying himself as "Captain Edward N. Edwards" of the Coast Guard, telephoned a newspaper office to report the "explosion". The only Coast Guard captain named Edwards in this region is Captain George E. Edwards, who was reached aboard a patrol craft at the time and said he knew nothing of the rumor.

BURNS PROVE FATAL

Joliet, Ill.—(AP)—James Wordendyke, 24, Chicago truck driver, died Saturday of burns suffered a week ago when he sought to extricate a man from the wreckage of his automobile, which was involved in a collision with Wordendyke's machine. Frank Manno of Joliet was burned fatally in the accident.

Formulae in Tests for U. S. Army are Soten

Boston, Aug. 12.—(AP)—A chemical laboratory reported today the theft of formulae and samples being used in experiments for the U. S. army designed to synthesize low grade oils with the properties of high grade lubricants.

Andrew J. White, president of the Universal Chemists Corporation, said the formulae were taken from a steel cabinet on the fourth floor of the building, and the oil samples from an adjoining laboratory.

The experiment is being conducted for the U. S. army, White told police. The laboratory was entered two weeks ago, but nothing of importance was taken then.

Roosevelt's Son Wishes Father's Rival Good Luck

Colorado Springs, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie says one of his first acts, if he is elected president, will be to prosecute all persons who bought or sold advertising in the Democratic national committee's 1940 campaign book.

The Republican nominee told a press conference late yesterday that such advertising purchases were not only in violation of the Hatch anti-politics law but also overstepped the Corrupt Practices act.

Willkie's warning that "all violations" of the Hatch or Corrupt Practices acts "will be relentlessly prosecuted" came shortly before a joint press conference with former President Herbert Hoover and a wish of "good luck" from Elliott Roosevelt, the president's son.

During the press conference Willkie was advised that Roosevelt's son was in his hotel, and he picked up a telephone.

The nominee promptly received an acceptance to his invitation that the president's son come up for a non-political visit and the two men and their wives chatted for half an hour.

Express Felicitations

As the younger Roosevelt left, Willkie expressed hope that he would have a pleasant vacation

Communists Kept Off Ballots in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Dan Garvey, assistant secretary of state, said today the Communist party of Arizona would not be certified for a place on the September 10 primary election ballot.

"The only way they can get on the ballot is to bring a mandamus suit against the secretary of state," he said.

Garvey said his letter officially notifying the party's secretary of the decision would cite the opinion of Attorney General Joe Conrad, Cal.; Warren A. Lawson of Haldane, enlisting in the signal corps is to be stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Petitions seeking a place on the ballot and hearing 436 names were received by the secretary of state's office Saturday, a short time before the attorney general ruled that the secretary could deny the party a position on the ballot.

Italy Turns Her Propaganda Guns on Greece After Outlaw's Assassination

Rome, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Italy turned her propaganda guns ominously on Greece today, charging the Greeks with supplying oil to British warships and planes and conniving with the British in "plots" along the border of Italian-conquered Albania.

The reported beheading of an obscure Albanian minority leader by Greek border raiders touched off a violent press campaign reminiscent of those by Germany against Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Britain was brought into the picture by the newspaper Il Poilo di Roma, which is close to the government, with a charge that British warships and warplanes operating in the Mediterranean against Italy were fueling at Greek bases.

Robbed Saturday

A gas station bandit, who had operated previously in Dixon, played a return engagement Saturday night about 11:30 o'clock and visited the Bonded and Johnson stations on the north side, which he had visited during the last 30 days. His first point of call Saturday night was at the Bonded station on Everett street, where he drove into the station, jumped from his car and ordered Roy Kuhn, the attendant, into the wash room. According to police he secured about $20 from Kuhn, who had a short time before placed a large sum of cash in a safe.

Within a very few minutes, the same individual drove into the Johnson station at the north end of the Peoria avenue bridge, where he worked rapidly, and ordering the attendant into the wash room took about $11, according to the police report. Both victims told police that the bandit was the same individual who had robbed them previously.

Instead of receiving the reward, the Greek informant said the Albanians were imprisoned and Italian officials notified,

Attack Includes Armada of 200 Bombers

BULLETIN
By The Associated Press

London, Aug. 12.—Hundreds of German air raiders struck some of the hardest blows of the war along the 125-mile stretch of England's south coast between Dover and Portsmouth today, but Britain's defenders again claimed a heavy toll of the Nazi dive bombers.

At least 18 and possibly twice that many were brought down in today's widespread air combats, the British said.

Chief targets of the German blasts were "a southern town" (identified by German dispatches as the great naval base of Portsmouth) and "a southeastern port" (which the Germans said was Dover).

Four waves of bomber smashed at the latter objective, the fourth coming late in the afternoon. The raids were continuing early tonight, with an ineffectual raid on another southeastern town.

The greatest blast, however, apparently was loosed on the "southern town", attacked at noon.

(By The Associated Press)

Nazi warplanes by the hundreds—including a 200-planes armada in a single thrust—lashed with blitzkrieg fury against England today, attacking British balloon barriers, harbors, channel shipping and the great naval base at Portsmouth.

An unofficial German tally listed 164 British planes destroyed in the two-day assault—including 71 today—which opened Sunday with an intensity hinting that the long-awaited "zero hour" may now be at hand.

Only 17 Nazi planes were reported missing.

Berlin dispatches said record-sized fires were started at Portsmouth, the base of the British home fleet, and that the Manston airport in Dorsetshire was left in ruins by a concentrated bombing attack.

The official German news agency, DNE, asserted that Hitler's air force already had begun to seize air superiority—the first step precluding actual land invasion in other Nazi conquests—and that British R. A. F. planes were no longer attacking German raiders.

Claim Attack—Broken

The British retorted that R. A. F. fighters broke up a mass flight of 200 Nazi planes and drove all but 55 back across the channel.

London dispatches said that by early afternoon at least 14, possibly 16, German planes were shot down. The Berlin radio counter-claimed that 23 R. A. F. planes were destroyed in the opening phase of the day's battles.

German planes were reported still pouring across the channel in apparently growing numbers.

"Large Scale Activity"

"Large-scale enemy activity is taking place over a wide area in the channel and Thames estuary", the British air ministry reported.

DNE, the official German news agency, said that the raids inflicted "new severe blows" and that the battle was still under way

Barrett to Plead for Honest Count over WENR Tonight

Chicago, Aug. 12.—(Special)—George F. Barrett will make a state-wide radio appeal over station WENR at 7 o'clock tonight for at least 25,000 people to help insure an honest election in November by enrolling at once in the Illinois Voters Committee to Stop Vote Frauds, of which he is chairman.

The subject of Barrett's address which will mark the official opening of his campaign for Attorney General, will be "Why Willie Must Win". It will be the first Illinois network broadcast in behalf of the candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie for president. It also will be the first official campaign opening of any candidate for state office.

Barrett will take time off, for the broadcast, from a tour which he and the other state candidates have been making through southern Illinois.

Although this marks the official opening, Barrett has not called a halt since his nomination on April 9, for the Attorney Generalship. He has steadily maintained his reputation as a consistent, year-around, campaigner for the return of Republicanism in Illinois.

Since the primary, Barrett has spoken in towns in every section of the state. During the last eight days, his tour has taken him into almost forty towns and cities in four congressional districts in the southern part of the state.

In announcing his official opening today, Barrett said that more than half of his address tonight will be devoted to a discussion of national affairs.

Patriotism Paramount
"Patriotism must be placed above partisanship this year," he said. "The most important question before the people of Illinois, and of all other states at this time, is whether we are to break tradition, continue with New Dealism, and thus destroy Democracy, or whether we are to elect a president who will adopt a sane course for our government."

"My answer to that is that Willie Must Win and I will explain my reasons in the state-wide broadcast tonight," he continued.

"It seems of utmost importance to me at this time that all Republican candidates recognize the fact that the election of Mr. Willkie is the paramount issue."

"I am going to carry on this campaign to the fullest extent of my ability, and the response which we have been meeting throughout the state leads me to a sincere belief that the Republican party will score a landslide this year in Illinois. However, I do not wish to lose sight of the bigger national question and I intend to keep Willie first, throughout the campaign."

Barrett said he will devote part of his opening address to a discussion of vote thefts. His principal platform plank is that election thievery must be stopped if Democracy is to be saved. Otherwise, he pointed out, the minority rules.

Barrett said he is pleased about the progress being made by the Illinois Voters Committee to Stop Vote Frauds, which he organized. He said he will invite every citizen in the state, regardless of party affiliation, to enroll and that he hopes to enlist at least 25,000 persons.

The committee has offices in Suite 723, 39 South La Salle street, telephone Central 6745. Hundreds of people have registered there to act as volunteer watchers at the polls in November.

Barrett said that starting September 1, he will organize these volunteers into classes and personally will instruct them how to detect vote frauds and how to stop them.

Booster Trip for Fair, Horse Show Coming Saturday

Entries for the show class in the Lee County Fair & Horse Show, to be presented at Assembly park, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 23, 24 and 25, are coming in at a very satisfactory rate and over the week-end some of the finest stock in northern Illinois was entered. Several owners in the vicinity of Chicago forwarded their entry lists which were received today.

A. J. Kirkendall of the National Cash Register Co., Chicago, entered several individuals in the saddle class. Chris Dragneier, another Chicago fancier sent in his entries of both saddlers and roadsters. Joy Morton of Aurora, of the Morton Salt Co., entered hackney ponies and saddlers, and is also expected to be represented in the harness division. Tom O'Malley of Aurora, a veteran in the showing of ring stock, sent in his entries both in the roadster and saddle classes. Sam Campbell of Mt. Carroll of the Argyle stables, one of the outstanding exhibitors in northern Illinois, has entered six head of hackney ponies beside saddle and harness stock.

Officials Encouraged
This list of early entries from some of the leading exhibitors in northern Illinois was most encouraging to the officers of the association, who anticipate the largest entry list in the seven years the show has been presented. The livestock department also promises to exceed the showing of former years and arrangements are being made to provide housing for the increased entries.

A booster trip over a radius of 50 miles of Dixon will be made Saturday, starting at 8 o'clock in the morning and lasting throughout the day and into the early part of the evening. The Lee County Voiture 40 and 8 locomotive with a group of fair boosters will visit every city and village in this section advertising the fair and horse show.

How Rich Is Uncle Sam With His Holding of 20 Billions in Gold?

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor.

New York, Aug. 11.—How rich is Uncle Sam?

He holds three-quarters of all of the world's monetary gold—traditional basis of money and symbol of wealth.

Does that make him as rich as Croesus, or, as suggested by German Economics Minister Walther Funk, as poor as the boy who had won all the marbles, and so he couldn't find anyone to play with?

Economists don't agree, but most American experts see the prospect of great advantages accruing to Uncle Sam from the $20,000,000,000 in glittering yellow metal in his vaults.

Of 30 economists throughout the country, asked to contribute to a symposium as to what they considered the future of gold, 16 replied. Seven saw the future value of gold secure, seven more were inclined to agree, with important reservations, mostly suggesting it would depend upon wise management by the United States, while only two took a frankly pessimistic view of the future usefulness of gold.

As to what Uncle Sam should do to assure the advantageous use of gold, six recommended steps toward freer international trade. Two urged restoration of gold to circulation in the United States, while two opposed it.

Several said that when the time was ripe the United States must co-operate to re-establish sounder currencies within the world, some mentioning a world monetary conference. Two recommended establishment of a big world bank financed with American gold. Two suggested use of gold to purchase military bases. Two mentioned continued purchases of gold as an aid to Great Britain.

Those who saw the future of gold reasonably secure said in part:

Edwin W. Kemmerer, professor of international finance at Princeton, who has served as monetary advisor to several governments:

"After the present World war, as after the last one, the world will gradually return to the gold standard, because efforts at managed paper money standards will break down. Such standards cannot be internationally-maintained on a large scale, and in a democracy like the United States would be wrecked by politicians through the exploitation of the money-issuing function for fiscal purposes, with resulting harmful inflation."

He urged maintenance by the United States of the present price of gold, restoring gold to circulation, and at a propitious time, the calling of an international conference to restore and improve the gold standard.

Melchior Palyi of Chicago, who until the Nazi regime in Germany was advisor to the reichsbank and chief economist of the Deutsche bank:

"Except for discoveries or inventions which would drastically cut the cost of production of gold, nothing can interfere with its permanent usefulness as a store of value, medium for settling international balances, and monetary base x x x."

He recommended "reasonable redistribution of part of the gold reserve, not only by importing more foreign goods, and fostering foreign travel of Americans, but by using gold for political and military purposes abroad."

"In my opinion," he said, "congress should eliminate the Johnson act and appropriate $2,000,000,000 at once to purchase choice investments in Latin America and the Dutch East Indies, thus securing this nation the maximum future benefits from gold ownership, as Britain did when they acquired the Suez canal shares and near eastern oil interests."

Ernest Minor Patterson, professor of economics, Wharton school of finance and commerce, University of Pennsylvania:

"It should be remembered that if foreign countries abandon gold they must either use some other commodity as a monetary standard, E. G., platinum, or undertake to operate their monetary systems with no commodity as a base. The Germans, through sheer necessity and with great difficulty, have been doing this for some years. x x x As yet there is no evidence that money can be satisfactorily 'managed', and certainly not without gold at least to give the public confidence in the monetary system."

Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., professor of economics, University of California, Los Angeles, former economist of the Chase National Bank, New York:

"I discredit Nazi propaganda regarding the future of gold. Gold's only competitor is the paper promises of governments and central banks, which were never more trusted than they are today. Germany would eagerly take gold today if she could get it. International barter still used money and exchange rates. Under barter, agreements are set directly or indirectly with reference to gold. x x x"

E. E. Agger, professor of economics, Rutgers University:

"While in all probability, gold will not again be used for domestic circulation, or be made available for domestic hoarding purposes, there is strong reason to believe that its use in the international field will persist."

He proposed "the establishment of a great international bank, to which gold would be turned over as a reserve, with acceptance by the United States in exchange of gold credits on the books of that bank x x x."

Frank A. Pearson, professor of agricultural economics, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., who in 1933 was associated with Prof. G. F. Warren in advising President Roosevelt during the government's gold price-fixing experiment:

"Most of the gold in the United States is the property of the people of the United States x x x. About one-fourth is subject to withdrawal by foreign individuals and governments. The stock of gold that the people of the United States own is no problem. There is no point in giving it away and receiving nothing for it. x x x x"

"When the war is over, these (foreign) balances should be returned to the owners, regardless of whether individuals or governments are to our liking, and regardless of whether these balances are afterwards transferred to other governments still less to our liking x x x"

"Political enmities play a secondary role in economic facts. The policies of the German government cannot change the value of gold very much."

Ragnar D. Naess, Wall Street economist:

"I believe gold will continue to occupy a prominent position as a medium of settlement of international balances and as a basic element in our domestic credit structure, despite present trends."

Those seeing little future for gold were—

Willford I. King, professor of economics, New York University:

"It is not improbable that the use of gold for bank reserves throughout the world will gradually be abandoned. If this happens, the value of gold in terms of commodities will fall sharply. We will not then be able to market our vast gold stock advantageously. However, we have it. It is paid for. It is not burdensome to keep. It will always be in demand for ornamentation and the arts. At the present, it is not one of our worries."

Another prominent economics professor, who did not wish to be quoted by name at this time, said the use of gold as money all over the world has been declining for a long time, and "the apparent value of gold is a sham," arising from U. S. treasury buying. He said, however, maintenance of our present gold policy was of urgent importance to Great Britain in its struggle with Germany.

Those who emphasized the seriousness of the gold problem, but saw possibilities of advantageous solutions, included:

W. E. Grimes, head of the department of economics and sociology, Kansas State College:

"The ultimate use of gold of the United States is problematical. It is doubtful if gold ever again will occupy the position it once held in the monetary systems of the world. However, it could be made quite useful for the purpose of settling international balances x x x. Before it can play such a role, the gold must be redistributed among the nations of the world. Perhaps something might be done along this line by using at least a part of our hoard to purchase needed military bases in Central America and other vital areas."

M. R. Benedict, University of California, Berkeley:

"Gold will continue to be valued and sought after by various nations, but currencies will be supported and trade carried on without much reference to its availability. Beyond the short run, the nature of post-war trade conditions is too uncertain to warrant predictions. x x x"

Marcus Nadler, professor of banking and finance, New York University:

"Gold in all probability will continue to be used for settling marginal international balances. World wide use of gold as a basis for currency and credit is doubtful. The best use of gold is for purchases abroad of commodities needed in the United States. Since, however, the export surplus of the United States is bound to continue, this country will have to take more gold. x x x"

E. J. Eberling, professor of economics, Vanderbilt University:

"It is possible that countries, after the present war is over, may obtain stability in exchange rates and the level of prices by arbitrary decree, coupled with efficient management of banking and currency systems without using gold at all. x x x I believe, however, that the United States can best serve its own interests and those of the world at large by holding fast to its present gold bullion standard. x x x"

F. Cyril James, principal and vice chancellor, McGill University, Montreal, former professor of finance and economic history, University of Pennsylvania:

"If at the end of the war, the United States cooperates wholeheartedly with other democratic powers for effective reconstruction of world economy, the hoarding of gold at Fort Knox (Ky.) will turn out to have been a major contribution to the future prosperity of the United States and of the world. If such cooperation and wisdom are not forthcoming, the outlook is very uncertain as to both the value of gold and its monetary usefulness."

G. F. Forster, head of the department of agricultural economics, North Carolina State College of Agriculture, former economist U. S. department of agriculture:

"x x x Unless some policy is worked out which will permit an increase in free international trade, our gold supply will become purely ornamental."

Erik T. H. Kjellstrom, Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.:

"The possibility exists for establishment of an inter-regional gold settlement bank either on western continental, or still better, inter-continental scale after the end of the war, to facilitate inter-regional and international trade x x x"

Paul Shenefelt Claims Bride in Iowa Ceremony

Miss Gerry Ann Barker of Los Angeles, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee Barker of Los Angeles, and Paul J. Shenefelt of Rock Island, son of the E. M. Shenefelts of 311 South Division street, Polo, were married Saturday afternoon at the Little Brown Church in the Vale at Nashua, Iowa. The vows were solemnized at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Davis of Polo, the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, attended the couple.

The bride wore a royal blue, gray and white ensemble with blue accessories and a white picture hat. Her shoulder corsage contained American Beauty roses and white sweetpeas.

Her matron of honor was wearing blue and white sheer with a white picture hat.

Mrs. Shenefelt was graduated from the University of Southern California in 1933, where she majored in art, and later enrolled for post-graduate study with Thomas Hart Benton at the Kansas Art Institute at Kansas City, Mo. Afterward, she was employed as a designer by Vogue Display in Chicago, before accepting a position as art director at radio station WHO in Des Moines, where she has been presenting the program, "It's a Woman's World."

Saturday's bridegroom was graduated from Polo Community high school and Mt. Morris college. He is credited with a brilliant record in high school, college and professional athletics, having been a member of the Chicago Cardinals' football squad for two seasons. He is now foreman of Department 3 of the Birtman Electric company of Chicago, with headquarters in Rock Island.

The couple will reside at 1827 Sixth avenue, Rock Island.

Polo Couple Is Wed 61 Years

—Telegraph Photo

The Rev. and Mrs. Isaac Divan of Polo, pictured above, celebrated the sixty-first anniversary of their marriage on Saturday. They were married on Aug. 1, 1879, and began housekeeping in a log house on his father's farm. Mr. Divan was licensed in 1883 at the annual Evangelical conference in Chicago, and has had pastorates at Forrester, Weston, Assumption, El Paso, Stockton, Rock Grove, Cedarville, Reddick, Price, Ottawa, Peotone, Sterling, Woodbine and Prairieview.

Mrs. Divan, the former Emma F. Ballenger, served as a member of the general board of missions for 35 years, was president of the Illinois branch of missions for 16 years, headed the district organization of the W. C. T. U. for a number of years, and was formerly an evangelist in the Illinois conference of the Evangelical church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Divan are the only living members of large families.

GRAND DETOUR PLAYERS TO CONTINUE STAGE PREMIERE OF COMEDY, "POST SCRIPT"

The largest throngs of summer theater-goers in the two-year history of the Grand Detour Players crowded historic Ilihi hall in Grand Detour for last week's world premiere of the new play, "Post Script." Through the kindness of Director Richard Vernon and his troupe, the show will be repeated this week in a four-night run beginning at 8:30 p. m. Thursday. The usual 3 o'clock matinee will also be presented on Sunday afternoon.

The Wilson-O'Connell comedy, which is to be produced on Broadway this fall, is packing with laugh-provoking lines and amusing situations, which lose nothing at the hands of an extremely competent cast.

From the gently-handled southern accent of Joan Norlander in the role of Muriel Norke-Howard, to the expert dialogue of Howard Ledig, Winnie Hoveler, and Maurice Blythe; the dumb-comic role of Franklin Lundstrom as Olin Oliver, and the comedy antics of Director Vernon himself as the drunken Al Post the group send their lines across the footlights to be received with frequent laughter and applause.

E. Melba Johnson, Bloomington dramatics instructor, who has rejoined the troupe after completing her teaching duties at Illinois Wesleyan summer school; James Krulish, Wallace Dace, Harold Wade, Steve Reed, Joe Spring, Mary Louise Poole and Nancy Lesser complete the cast.

Plagiarism suits, suspected murder, and minor complications are developed as the story progresses to a hilarious climax.

Director Vernon accompanied his announcement of the repeat performances of the play with word that the old-fashioned melodrama, "Fashion," originally scheduled for this week, would be presented next week.

Charles Washburn of New York, manager of Al Jolson and George M. Cohan, has informed the Players by telegram that he hopes to attend one of their performances before the season closes. Mr. Jolson, now appearing in Chicago, was to have visited the theater yesterday, but was detained in the city.

Theater-goers who have been inquiring about several former members of the troupe will be interested in knowing that Kay Harris has gone to her home in Elkhorn, Wis., to complete preparations for entering Carleton college.

Mr. Buckingham Wins Recognition

Clyde E. Buckingham of this city is one of several former University of Chicago seminar members credited by William Warren Sweet, head of the university's American history department, with assisting in compiling material for the latter's recently-published book, "Religion on the American Frontier, 1783-1850."

The volume is the third of a series of books published by Mr. Sweet since his arrival at the University in 1927, making available source materials for an understanding of religious forces which made any impact upon the frontier. It traces the history of "The Congregationalists."

Mr. Buckingham's paper on "Western Expansion of New England," forms the basis for the opening chapter of the publication. His paper on "The Influence of the Anti-Slavery Movement on the Schism of the Presbyterian Church—1837," was the background for 200 pages of the preceding volume, "The Presbyterians," published in 1936.

Mr. Buckingham was a member of Mr. Sweet's seminar in the winter and spring of 1933.

Adams-Parker Rites Are Read

A simple home wedding was solemnized at 12:30 p. m. Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Smith of Amboy, in which the Smiths' eldest daughter, Mrs. Ruth Parker, became the bride of Hobart Adams of Sublette. Blue lace was chosen by the bride for her wedding dress.

Following the ceremony, a wedding luncheon was served for 20 guests at a table attractively appointed in pastel colors and silver. The center decoration was a tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Afterward, Mr. Adams and his bride left for a ten-day wedding trip through northern Wisconsin. They will return to Sublette to reside on the bridegroom's farm.

Mrs. Adams has been employed at the Hull Confectionery in Amboy for the past three years.

WERNICKS HOLD FAMILY REUNION

The third Wernick reunion attracted 122 members and guests to the White Pines State park yesterday. Charles Wernick of Durand, 85, was the oldest relative attending, and the youngest was Gary Pangburn, seven months old son of the Ralph Pangburns of Clinton, Iowa.

The E. M. Goodells and Mrs. Goodells' mother, Mrs. Thomas Ames, left early yesterday morning for Janesville, Wis., to attend a reunion of the Hendee family. Mrs. Ames, 93, who is the oldest descendant, was the principal speaker.

The Hendees came to this country from England in 1745.

HOLD HAWAIIAN DANCE AT DIXON COUNTRY CLUB

Stately palms, with cocoanuts heaped about their bases and a blue spotlight playing upon a half-moon overhead was the background for the evening's gaiety when Dixon Country club members met at the clubhouse for a Hawaiian dance on Saturday night. Silhouettes of hula girls, dressed in grass skirts, with flower leis about their shoulders, stood at either side of the doorway.

About 50 couples, including out-of-town guests from Sterling and Oregon, turned out for the semi-formal event. Jack Phelps and his dance band from Sterling entertained from 10 o'clock until 1 a. m., following an 8 o'clock dinner, served by Mrs. William Foster, the club cateress.

Miss Bettie Haines headed the dance committee. Assisting her with arrangements were the Misses Leone Kreim, Helen Krug, Emily Swan, and Cathryn Buchner.

A DAUGHTER

Word has been received here of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooper of Rockford on Friday at the Swedish American hospital in Rockford. Mrs. Cooper is the former Miss Ellen Raffenberg.

FROM APPLETON

Mr. and Mrs. George Beier and daughter Beverly are expected to return this evening from Appleton, Wis., where they have been visiting friends since Saturday afternoon.

LEGION AUXILIARY

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary will meet in G. A. R. hall at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Attend Smith-Whiting Bridal

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Smith of 210 North Galena avenue and Mrs. Smith's sisters, Mrs. E. E. Holdridge, Mrs. M. S. Owens and Miss Frances E. Patrick went to Madison, Wis. today to attend the wedding of the former's son, Dr. George Winston Smith, and Miss Helen May Whiting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Whiting of Madison.

The ceremony was performed in the Pilgrim Congregational church in Madison at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Afterward, Dr. Smith and his bride left for a brief wedding trip to northern Wisconsin. Later in the week, they expect to come to Dixon for a visit with the bridegroom's parents, before going to Washington, D. C. to reside.

Dr. Smith is assistant professor of history in the American university.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER INCOGNITO

BY NORMAN KAHL

COPYRIGHT, 1940,
NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

It was nothing you could put your hands on. The soft, piling breezes of the summer night that floated through Martin Saylor's spacious drawing room had nothing to do with it. It was the way you feel when you're alone on a dark night and you know that someone is reaching out to strangle you. Only when you turn around, there's nobody there.

Dale Appleby felt it, too. He lay slumped on his spine, in one of the overstuffed chairs near the fireplace. Even with his chest sunken, his head propped forward by the back of the chair, his body showed the sturdy, virile contour of an athlete. His blond hair was cut high at the temples, and the tightly drawn skin of his cheeks, the gently twitching muscles in his face, gave him a patrician air.

"It's no use, Rhoda," Dale said softly. "I just went over the whole matter again with Saylor in his study. I stay broke until he feels like turning over the money. And my mother's will is airtight."

"It ought to be a good will," Rhoda Waters said. He wrote it. Your stepfather may be rotten—but he's a good lawyer."

"Good enough to keep me a pauper—and there's not one blessed thing I can do about it."

Rhoda's eyes brightened and her lips curved into a tiny smile. "Yes, there is. There's one way."

"What?"

"Murder him."

DALE'S head snapped up and his eyes fastened on Rhoda, but he didn't seem to hear her. "I there a clause in your mother's will that gives you the money automatically if your beloved stepfather dies?"

Dale laughed uneasily. "There is, my love. But the suggestion coming from you startled me a bit."

Rhoda rested her elbows on her knees and propped her chin with the palms of her hands. "Oh, Dale . . . what's the use? You know why he won't let you have the money. He hates me . . . he doesn't want you to marry me."

Dale lighted a cigaret and flicked tobacco particles from his white mess jacket. "You know that's not the real reason, darling. It's an excuse. He's greedy and cruel." He nodded toward the man and woman sitting near the broad French windows across the room. "They're his victims, too. So is George Barbour, who's in Saylor's den right now. This whole affair tonight—asking all of us to dinner and torturing us with his hostile courtesy—it's all part of the whole ugly scheme. Saylor can't just exact his pound of flesh. He's got to watch his victims writhe in agony."

Dale was thinking of his mother then—of the way she, too, had fallen into the clutches of the man who now sat in her house meeting out his punishment. Dale's mother had married Martin Saylor three years after her first husband died. She died four years later, when Dale was 20. Saylor had drawn her last testament and, under his influence, she had specified that Saylor was to hold Dale's legacy until her son became 21—or until, in Saylor's opinion, Dale was responsible enough to handle his own fortune.

Rhoda reached over and took a cigaret from the coffee table before her. "I suppose I ought to tell you, Dale—I saw Saylor the other day. He asked me to come over. He told me you would never get any of the money as long as you went around with me. He called me a—gold-digger."

Color rushed into Dale's cheeks. "Why, the contemptible—"

He stopped abruptly. The other

These were Saylor's victims and his guests. Each had adequate cause to plot and commit his murder.

couple was standing over them. Dale sprang to his feet until the blond woman seated herself on the far end of the divan.

"I wish he'd get it over with—whatever he wants," Hazel Leighton said. "I'm getting jittery." She couldn't have been much older than 30. She was still pretty, but her excessive make-up and the dull platinum of her hair made her seem somewhat older.

Winslow Mardell remained standing. The corner of his mouth curled up to meet one end of his thin mustache. He placed one hand on Hazel's shoulder. "You know what he wants. It's the payoff, isn't it? Dear old Uncle Martin wants to welch—and I'm betting he gets away with it."

Hazel flared. "I wouldn't talk about welching, if I were you. You're not here to play chess with the Old Master. After a while he has it straight, there's a little matter of some gambling—"

"That's my business," said Mardell coldly. "Mine and Saylor's. We'll manage to settle—"

MARDELL stopped short. In the broad, arched doorway on the south side of the room stood two men, almost exactly the same height. George Barbour smiled.

But no one was interested in Barbour. The others were watching the man who stood beside him. His body was more solid than Barbour's and suggested strength and utter determination. Shaggy eyebrows half concealed the steely glint in his eyes.

"How cozy everyone looks," Martin Saylor said.

Mardell stepped forward. "Are you ready to see me now?" he demanded.

Saylor grabbed Barbour's arm and led him into the room. "I'll see you at the proper time. There's no need to hurry. I want all of you to enjoy yourselves." His smile was almost savage.

"George and I have just had a little chat . . . very pleasant," Saylor said. "We've settled lots of things."

Rhoda sprang to her feet. "Why do you have to do this to us? Why do you have to torture us? Can't you just get it over with?"

"There's no need to get hysterical," Saylor said coldly.

Dale had risen with Rhoda and had thrown a protective arm great open-air pageant in Chicago next Saturday evening.

Arrangements have been made to have specially chartered bus service for Dixonites who wish to attend the festival in Chicago.

At very low-cost round trip fare, $2.95, music fans from Dixon and vicinity can be transported to Chicago and return, leaving here at 7 o'clock in the morning to permit a full day in Chicago and returning after the concert in the evening. Such arrangements permit leaving your car at home and avoiding the difficulties of the heavy traffic of that day. All music lovers and all friends of the members of the contesting groups should help to swell Dixon's representation at Soldier Field.

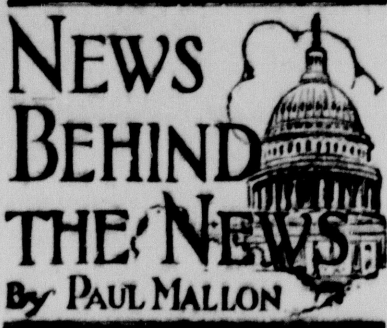

Training for Trade

The battle for trade which will follow the battle for Europe is as certain as the rising of the sun.

The United States has made some preparation for it, and must make more. One of our handicaps in the development of trade in the countries to the south is trained personnel. United States firms have many excellent representatives in South America. But all had to learn from scratch. Scarcely one went there with previous knowledge of the languages, customs, buying habits, history and culture of the people. They learn these things, but painfully, slowly, and only through their own mistakes.

Germans, for instance, do not do this. They train foreign trade representatives as they train their army. When they arrive at their destination they already have a long head start.

Editor Robert D. Lusk of the Huron, S. Dakota Huronite, advances an interesting suggestion that thousands of American young men ought to be trained especially for such service. It's worth considering. In the meantime, young men who wonder what future today's world offers them, could go a long way in preparing themselves by study of Spanish, Portuguese, economics, history, travel, and foreign trade itself for one field which is likely to offer an expanding future.

Washington, August 12—Not only Willie's own Commonwealth & Southern, but every one of its subsidiaries, is being sifted minutely in the pan by administration placer miners. They are looking for campaign pay dirt, and they are going about it in a very expensive, if unofficial way.

The job is in charge of a Republican appointee of President Roosevelt on one of the so-called independent commissions of the Federal government. He is working under the outside guidance of an old time leading public ownership man. Every government record of these companies for years past is coming under their scrutiny.

New dealers who worked the same diggings two years ago have their doubts that the effort is worthwhile. After the purge campaign against Senator George failed in 1933, the FBI and some other Federal agencies devoted themselves assiduously to ascertaining how much money and influence the C and S's Georgia Power Company had in the unsatisfactory result. They even went into the personal florist bills and coal bills of the President, apparently to make sure he had cast no political poses and filled no political stockings. They found nothing there worth mentioning.

Also a fairly well-known magazine man has stolen into town to rummage the archives for a series of newspaper articles which are supposed to create a campaign sensation by their exposure of Willkie as a ring-tailed tycoon.

Secretary of State Hull is quietly planning to retire at the end of his present term whether Roosevelt wins or loses. Undersecretary Sumner Welles already has one hand on Hull's chair.

Those who are reaching for Wallace job will be surprised to hear Roosevelt is looking for an unusual type of man, one who has no politics in his face or background. They may even pass over M. L. Wilson, the former undersecretary, and Claude Wickard, the present undersecretary, to elevate some scientists from the agriculture department who never cast a vote outside his test tubes.

The high Democratic political command is worried about out of Wallace's personal hold upon farmers through the AAA.

Federal Works Administration John Carmody's associates are boosting him about inside for Labor Secretary Frances Perkins' position in expectation that Roosevelt is about to require a change in that department before election.

Roosevelt's self-effacing leaders in Congress (minus the absent Garner) have slipped him word his entire program is certain of enactment. The draft bill, they have told him, is not in as much real danger as the noise from the opposition benches would indicate. Heavy vocal opposition likewise was forecast to him on the export-import deal and the excess profits tax—amortization measure. But a fair margin of final safety was assured him. For these unannounced reasons, FDR felt free to go off on his current national defense inspection campaign for re-election.

You will never see another picture of Wallace casting a boomerang. The last one he threw for the press photographers nearly killed an AP lensman. Hereafter all photographic publicity showing Wallace in a sportive mood will reveal him casting horseshoes or fishing, and they may even put a rubber stopper on the hook and use rubber horseshoes, as the Democratic vice-presidential candidate does not seem to realize his own strength.

DIXON EVENING TELEGRAPH

Grayson's Scoreboard

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

Bud Ward will have no cakewalk in defending the national amateur golf championship at Winged Foot, Sept. 9-14.

There will be Jim Ferrier, the big Australian, Wilfred Wehrle, Willie Turnesa and the perennial Johnny Goodman, among others . . . and Ray Billows.

The younger of the Turnesas, who came down in front at Oakmont in 1938, picks Billows, who walloped him in the New York State final in Syracuse.

Billows started slowly this summer . . . was ragged in July, but amazed Turnesa with his power in their New York State match.

"Billows has thickened out physically and lengthened the arc of his swing," says Turnesa. "He's making his added weight count for distance . . . has picked up 20 yards or so off the tee."

"I used to stay abreast of him on my drives, but in Syracuse he forced me to play the odd consistently."

Craig Wood, Winged Foot's Blond Bomber, wonders why Turnesa ever misses a shot, yet Billows crushed him, 8 and 6 in the New York State playoff.

And Winged Foot happens to be Billows' favorite course, which will make putting him out especially hard.

"Turnesa's upright swing verges on perfection," explains Wood. "Certain topnotch professionals may have more effective swings, but few match Willie's grace and rhythm."

"It's a treat to watch Turnesa in action."

"He pirouettes on his toes like a ballet dancer, shifting his weight effortlessly fore and aft."

"Nobody would call the shut-face Billows a classic stylist, but Ray compensates for that shut-face technique. He is a grand shotmaker, blessed with an ideal disposition for tournament golf. He never loses his poise . . . rarely plays a careless shot. His cold never counts in the pinches."

Bud Ward is a remarkable amateur. Jim Ferrier and Wilfred Wehrle have faced the fire of the professionals since early spring.

But handsome as is handsome does in golf, and this easily could be Ray Billows' year.

Conn Likely Even Money When Bell Sounds for Fight

By SID FEDER

New York, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The rosy dream of building Billy Conn into a hulging-muscled heavyweight has turned out to be just another nightmare again.

The Pittsburgh pretty boy was expected to scale about 180 pounds for his tussle tomorrow night with Bob Pastor in the Polo Grounds. Instead, it now appears he will be lucky to get past the 175-pound limit for light heavyweights—a division from which he is about to "abdicate," while still ruler, in order to campaign for the heavy sugar among the big boys.

Every time Conn has come to town in the past six months or so, his handlers have told you confidently he was filling out like a balloon, was no longer able to get down to the light-heavy limit, undoubtedly would be a 180-pounder and up from here on, and would be ready for Joe Louis in September.

Boils His Trouble

At his camp near scenic Grosinger's lake, he tipped the beam at 184 or thereabouts when he started to work. He was 180 as late as last Monday. But Tuesday his boils came back. He flew to Pittsburgh to have one treated, had to take hot baths as part of the cure, and Manager Johnny Ray admits now that Billy won't be "as heavy as we hoped."

Such being the case, Billy the kid is going to find himself in for no circus tomorrow night. A classy boxer, himself, he is tangling with one of the best ring generals among the bigger fellows, a determined battler who has gone 21 rounds with Joe Louis and has dented the championship hopes of many another aspirant besides Conn before now. The winner has been promised a shot at Louis in September.

The betting odds, which had favored Conn, continued to drop today and it was altogether likely the whole thing would be an even-money proposition by the time the boys went to the post.

Hambletonian To Be Widest Open Race in Years

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Until a dozen or so owners of speedy three-year-old trotters decide to risk $500 more on the chance of winning something over $20,000, there's no telling what will happen in the 15th Hambletonian stakes Wednesday.

The final payment is due tomorrow. Then the owners and trainers will have to decide whether their colts have enough chance to add that $500 to the $460 they already have in the pot. The way things look now, there are at least eight pretty sure starters and a half dozen others may go.

It's considered the widest-open Hambletonian since Lord Jim won back in 1934. And that might be a good hunch for the bettors, for one of the possible starters is Lord Jim's son, Gentleman Jim, owned by John F. Davis of Toledo and driven by H. M. (Doc) Parrshall, who not only piloted Lord Jim to victory but won again last year with Peter Astra.

Expect $4,000 At Race

The uncertainty of the race and the opportunity of seeing America's finest harness horses battling for a $45,000 pot are two big attractions which will bring 45,000 or more people to this village of 2,300 Wednesday. The other lure is that of Goshen itself and the county-fair atmosphere of the town's annual big day.

JAMES BOYS WIN FROM BELVIDERE TEAM LAST EVE

Capacity Crowd at Airport Sees Good Game Sunday Evening

The pitching duel between the two pitchers that have done the twirling for James Billiards All-Stars this year, Lefty Johnson and Ervin Schult, failed to take place at the airport last night. O. E. Rowley received a call from Johnson yesterday afternoon informing him that Johnson's father was sick in Chicago and that he was called there. The James manager sent out an S. O. S. call for a pitcher and in the course of telephone calls and what-not came up with Kosier of the Sipes Red Devils of Sterling.

Kosier went right to work on the team that Schult brought over from Belvidere and with the help of his new team mates defeated said team 9 to 5. Schult's team tried hard to beat the local boys and were tied with them until the eighth inning when his old team mates jumped onto him for four runs. Two walks and four hits brought in the four runs. It was a packed house at the airport last night that watched the two teams battle back and forth, first one going ahead and then the other.

Dixon scored first in the first when they pushed across one run and hits by Murphy and Slain. Belvidere came right back with two in the third on errors by Murphy and Krug and two singles by Schult and Larson. The locals came back with two in the third to go ahead 3 to 2 on a single by Bus Carlson, a walk to Slain and both scoring on Larson's error of Krug's grounder. James added another run in the fifth on a double by Bus Carlson and Murphy's single. Belvidere went ahead in the sixth 5 to 4 when they scored three runs on a single by Schult, an error by Red Flanagan, single by Behling, walk to Woods, a single by Bucklin. The James boys went to work in the eighth and sewed up the game when Slain, first man up singled Krug and Fane both walked, filling the bases, Littrell who went into the ball game the inning before for Page, singled, scoring Slain, leaving the bases still loaded and nobody away. G. Carlson singled scoring Krug and Fane. Red Flanagan singled, scoring Littrell. Glessner struck out and Kosier and B. Carlson fled out to Schrader.

Kosier walked five men and struck out seven during the game while Schult walked three and struck out nine of his old team mates. B. Carlson, Murphy, Slain, and Kosier all had two hits apiece for the home team. Schult and Larson had two for the Belvidere team. Tuesday night the James Billiards travel to Rock Falls where they will play the fast Rock Falls Merchants known last year as the Logans. The team will leave from James at 6:30.

Dixon Girls Win

The Dixon Girls won themselves another ball game last night in the first game at the airport, 8 to 7. It looked like the Dixon Girls were going to have an easy time winning this game as they were playing fine ball and Reed, the little left hander from Amboy, who was on the mound for the local girls, was going along in great style an leading 4 to 0 going into the fifth inning. It had been announced that the game would only go five innings, due to the Triumph girls arriving late but as the game had went along at a fast clip at the start of the fifth they were told they could go seven. That was what the Triumph girls were waiting for as they went out and got all their seven runs in that inning. The Dixon Girls had only made one error up to this inning but then the bottom fell out and with two hits and six errors, the Triumph team went ahead 7 to 4. But the Dixon Girls redeemed themselves and scored two runs in the last half of the fifth and two in the sixth to win 8 to 7. Knight, the Dixon Girls first baseman, had four hits in four times at bat. Lehman had two. For the losers Klinge had two. Tonight the Dixon Girls will travel to Princeton where they will play the Westcoast girls of LaSalle.

League Standings

Two games that were postponed will be played tonight at the Airport. In the first game the I. N. U. will meet Sparky's and the second will bring together the Kelars and the State Hospital.

ALL-STAR GAME FRIDAY

Lang's All Stars that defeated the James' All Stars a week ago will take on the Henny All Stars (Quite a lot of Stars don't you think?) Friday night of this week at the Airport. Henny's are leading the league and their pitcher is Walt Gage that saw service with the James Billiards last year. The Dixon Knacks may play the first game.

The Dixon Knacks remained on top of the Illinois State League yesterday when they defeated Shabbona 5 to 4 before a crowd of 600 fans. It was one of those nip and tuck ball games that kept the crowd on their toes until the final out was made. Joe Reeves started on the mound for the Knacks and it looked like he was going to have an easy time of it as he allowed only one hit, a double by Ottelard, in four innings. But starting the fifth Joe ran into trouble and before it was over he had to be relieved by Howe. Wright, first man up was out on a fly ball to Miller; Colby walked, George reached first and Colby stopped at second on Bus Carlson's error. O.Kane dropped a single into short left field filling the bases. Ottelard singled to right field scoring Colby. With the bases still filled R. Challand dropped a Texas leaguer into center scoring George and O.Kane with the treng runs. At this time Bob Howe relieved Reeves with Ottelard on third and R. Challand on second. W. Challand greeted Mr. Howe with a single scoring Ottelard and R. Challand stopping at third. With still only one away Houghty lined out to Prestegard and Presty's throw to Prestegard doubled Challand off third.

Chip Shots from Country Club by Scribe J. Fritzlen

By JACK FRITZLEN

The boys who are competing in the two-ball foursome handicap tourney seem to be mimicing Adolf Hitler's lackadaisical attack methods as far as the completion of the tourney goes. Adolf has let the high-tide season roll by without any damaging effect upon John Bull and the local golfers have let a few "deadlines" slip by without finishing the first round. As a result, Wee Willie Foster has given forth with a verbal barrage of acid words. With cold finality, Scotty Bill says that the first round must be completed by Tuesday night or the match will be definitely defaulted. This directly applies to the following three contests: Homer Millard and Dr. Johnson versus Johnny Shaulis and Arnold Lund; J. F. Hoffman and Vic Eichler versus Dr. Lazier and E. Taylor; F. Smith and Calder versus K. Stuart and Zeolck. The winners of these first two matches are: Torrens and Keller 3 and 2 victors over Shoaf and Dunkelberger; Barrowman and Miller defeating Bracken and Beier 1 up; C. Taylor and Willard Jones, besting Mateer and Tyler 4 and 3; Bettelver and Myers taking Wilbur and Cannon 5 and 3. Eno and Plozman drew a first round bye.

In second round matches Torrens and Keller beat Barrowman and Miller 1 up. Taylor and Jones meet Bettelver and Myers, the winner of which will meet Torrens and Keller in a semi-final. The Dixon Country Clubbers will journey forth to DeKalb this Thursday to participate in that club's "Play Day" activities. The festivities start in the afternoon. Incidentally, August 22 has been set as the day the Dixon Country club will observe its own "Play Day" one of the highlights of the season. Plans are being made to make this year's event one of the best ever.

Not that it will make any impression in the golfing world, but yours truly is happy to join Willard Jones as the representative of our respective fraters in as much as golfing versatility is concerned. Willard recently took the rest of the "Jones Boys" to camp and this corner managed to miss less than the two Fritzlen representatives from Waukegan and Indianapolis. Thereof this hardy, doubtful individual wishes to challenge W. Jones to see which family is the least erratic!

Detroit Lad Winner of Soap Box Derby; Record

Akron, O., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A happy 12-year-old with a pug nose and plenty of teeth in his smile is bound for a free college education today by virtue of winning the annual All-American "soap box" derby. He is Tommy Fisher of Detroit, son of a salesman of machinist supplies. Robert Londeroe of Charleston, W. Va., and George Smith of Akron were the other finalists from preliminary heats contested Sunday by 130 racers sponsored by newspapers throughout the United States, Canada and Panama. They flashed nose and nose down a 1,031-foot concrete runway lined by 50,000 spectators. There was less than a third of a length between first and last cars. Londeroe was second and Smith third. Fisher set a new record for the meet at 26.68 seconds.

Tommy went back to win an international race over Teddy Stewart of Colon, Panama, and Donald McGowan of Belleville, Ont. The Chevrolet Motor Co., co-sponsors of the meet, awarded Fisher a four-year scholarship and Londeroe and Smith received new automobiles.

Steward Wins

Steward seems to have hit the jack-pot with Bill Eckhardt pitching great ball as he has won the last three games for Steward. Yesterday Steward defeated West Brooklyn 7 to 6 with Eckhardt striking out 13 men, walking three, while the old left hander Knauer struck out six and walked one. Edwards had four singles and R. Kromm had three singles for West Brooklyn while Steward's leading hitters were Applier who hit a home run and a single, and Grove and Trowbridge who hit triples. Steward made seven runs, 13 hits and 4 errors. West Brooklyn made six runs, nine hits and two errors. Batteries: Steward—Eckhardt and Walters; West Brooklyn—Knauer and R. Kromm.

Amboy went on a hitting spree and outslugged Lee by the score of 12 to 6. Amboy turned on the heat in the 7th inning by scoring 9 runs. Flack, Jones, and Brander of Amboy had three hits apiece, all making a triple and two singles. Johnson and D. Olson of the losers had a triple apiece.

CLEVELAND MEETS DETROIT TIGERS IN MAJOR SERIES

Vitt Ready to Work Bob Feller in First of Crucial Games

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oscar Vitt was in the happy position of being able to send Bob Feller, the best pitcher in the business, to the mound today as his Cleveland Indians opened an important two-game series against the Detroit Tigers at Cleveland.

The two clubs fought their way into a tie for the American League lead yesterday, each with 64 wins and 44 losses, and the outcome of their battles today and tomorrow night have a vital bearing on the race. After all, it's getting along in the summer, when pace setters begin to crack.

With Feller firing them across for the Indians and trying to rack up his 20th victory of the year, Manager Del Baker of the Tigers was forced to call upon John Gorschka, his freshman ace, who has won 7 and lost 5. He didn't have a veteran star ready for duty.

Should Feller win today and put the Indians out in front, it would not be surprising to see Vitt begin pitching

In London, a spokesman indicated in the absence of official comment that Britain would be averse to a proposal of former President Herbert Hoover that the United States supply food to Holland, Belgium, Poland and Norway.

Will Maintain Blockade

The spokesman said that Britain would vigorously maintain its blockade against Germany and Nazi-occupied European states, and that food for 18,000,000 non-Germans in the occupied territories depended on "fair distribution by Germany, which has an abundance of supplies."

Two British Warships Were Damaged by Bomb Splinters

Two British warships were damaged by bomb splinters, the British said, and some naval buildings were hit in Sunday's Portland attacks but they failed to acknowledge hits on military objectives.

Despite the Stern Nazi Assaults

A German wireless announcer cautioned they were "not to be interpreted as the start of a German attack on Great Britain." He said they were just "preparation."

Britain, for her part, told of far-reaching raids on Germany and German-occupied Holland and northern France.

The Wilhelmshaven naval base and factories in many parts of Germany were bombed Saturday, the British said, as were airbases in Holland and France.

Transport Torpedoed

At sea, Britain announced a troop transport, the Mohamed Ali El-Kebir, had been torpedoed in the Atlantic with 120 lives lost.

Details were withheld and it could not be ascertained if the arrival of a small Canadian detachment in England had any connection with the transport.

War in Africa, overshadowed by all its desert sun and hardships by the intense combat over Britain, continued briskly between British and Italians.

Italy made deeper thrusts into British Somaliland and the Kenya colony.

She announced the occupation of Karrin and Godejare passes and the bombing of Aden on the Red Sea.

The British scoffed at Italy's chances of making significant gains.

Illinois Guard Commanded As It Pitches Camp

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Arrival of Maj. Gen. Gilson D. Light, commanding general of the 37th division, Ohio National Guard, today completed the organization of headquarters of the major units participating in the Second Army maneuvers.

There were 1,149 officers and 10,806 men in camp last night in this area, and arrivals today will almost triple the camp strength.

Regular army troops at Sharnbrook, where the Fifth Division, commanded by Brig. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, are encamped, reconnoitered the terrain west of Cataract where on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday they will demonstrate tactical disposition of a full stream-lined division in both offense and defense operations.

This was the biggest day of movement of troops into the maneuver area. Fifty nine troop trains were scheduled for arrival at four base camps with about 16,000 troops.

At Warrens, 13 trains bringing units of the 37th division, Ohio National Guard, were arriving, and at Wyewille 23 trains were scheduled to unload the 38th division units of Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia National Guard.

Air units began arriving to take up training with their divisions. The 107th observation squadron, Michigan National Guard, arrived by train at La-Crosse; the 112th observation squadron, Ohio National Guard, arrived at Camp Williams; and the 113th observation squadron, Indiana National Guard, was due at Wisconsin Rapids this afternoon.

Highways continued to carry a heavy volume of motorized artillery units concentrating in the maneuver area. Ten convoys with 235 vehicles were due to arrive today.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commanding the 33rd division, Illinois National Guard, was complimented by Col. C. H. Bonestell, chief of staff of the Second Army, for the efficient manner in which the Illinois troops arrived at Camp McCoy.

Suggests Airmail Carriers be Free of Proposed Taxes

Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The nation's airmail carriers urged congress today to exempt them from the proposed excess profits tax on the ground that they were "vital to national defense" and that their profits were controlled by federal law.

Colonel Edgar S. Gorrell of Chicago, president of the Air Transport Association of America, declared "there is no excess in the air carrier industry" because the Civil Aeronautics Authority can fluctuate the rates for airmail carrying according to a company's earnings. He appeared at a joint hearing of the house ways and means and senate finance committees on the proposed tax.

Under the Civil Aeronautics Act, Gorrell said, these carriers' profits can be no "greater than the needs of the carrier in the public interest."

He added that the air carriers were part of the national defense setup and that nothing should be done to impair their efficiency.

Should the committees not see fit to exempt those air carriers whose profits are regulated by CAA, Gorrell proposed these changes in the suggested profits tax legislation:

Exclude losses incurred during the 1936-1939 "base period" in figuring the tax.

Count 100 per cent of borrowed money as "invested capital" in computing the tax, when the borrowings are "devoted to matters of public interest" such as a new equipment program for the airlines.

A lower initial tax rate. The proposed rates start at 25 per cent and run to 40 per cent.

Methodical Preparations Precede British Raids on German Industry

By DREW MIDDLETON

With the Royal Air Force, somewhere in England, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Long hours of methodical preparation go into every one of the hundreds of raids in which Royal Air Force bombers have battered at the heart of industrial Germany.

Here is a description typical of any of the last 30 days during which the R. A. F. has dropped 37,000 bombs.

Object: The Ruhr valley. At noon, as orders come through specifying the target and the number of planes to be used, the R. A. F. station goes into action.

All through the afternoon, sweating men in overalls feed gas to the heavy bombers, overhaul motors, restock tin gunners' supplies of machine-gun bullets, prepare the bomb racks.

Pilots bend over plotting their courses—"guns are pretty thick there. Better go north of it." Wireless operators check codes and signals. Gunners inspect their weapons.

A Merry Meal Then comes dinner, a merry meal despite the possibility that in 12 hours, at another meal, some places at the table may be empty.

At 11 p. m. when the English countryside sinks into sleep in the hush of a summer evening, a Whitley bomber, bearing two tons of bombs, trundles down the runway. A moment later it noses ponderously into the air.

The others follow. They fly above the airfield for a moment, then the motors break into a roar and the formation heads east toward the channel.

As the drone of engines dies, the ground crews troop off to their billets to sleep. The raiders will keep silent until sometime during the night one word will flash back to the command, telling whether the bombing was successful.

Know Continent

What's it like? A flight lieutenant who has flown his Whitley over Germany two of every three nights for six weeks gives this picture: "We know the continent as we know our pockets, from the leaflet flights (which preceded actual bombings.) It's easy going until we reach Germany. We rendezvous and then glide toward the target to obtain maximum surprise.

"When you near the target, things heat up. It's dark, then suddenly searchlights are around you like pillars of white. Their anti-aircraft starts to hammer.

"Their blackout is very good. So if there's no moon, we drop flares. Moonlit bombing is a picnic. The blackout doesn't help very much then. We go over the target, drop our 'sticks' (dropping the bomb load in a line across the target) and head home singly."

Scorn For Fighters

German fighter planes don't bother him, he said, with the true bomber pilot's scorn of fighters. When German barrage balloons were mentioned, he laughed and said: "Sometimes we give them a couple of rounds on our way home."

As returning planes pass over the coast, they give a recognition signal. The ground crews wait at the airfield counting planes as they come in. The first plane lands and its weary crew steps out, joins in scanning the skies and counting other planes, swearing or praying according to their natures.

Then they go silently to breakfast and bed. The ground crews work the planes over to their ground garages."

There is silence over the vast expanse of airbase as dawn breaks. But in five or six hours the telephone from general headquarters of the R. A. F. will ring briskly. Another night's work will start.

President Shows Pleasure on His Inspection Tour

Newport, R. I., Aug. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt came here today in the midst of the nation's $10,000,000,000 preparedness drive and looked over three more of New England's major defense installations—the naval war college and torpedo and training stations.

Stopping first at the torpedo plant—one of the world's largest on Goat island, the Chief Executive completed his inspection in a matter of minutes, pausing to look at two ton-and-a-half torpedoes.

The presidential yacht Potomac had nosed out of an early-morning fog and tied up at a pier at the torpedo station.

The Chief Executive rode to Coaster's Harbor island, site of the training station and war college. In a gray admiral's barge and went ashore at a spot where the first white settlers of Newport landed.

At the conclusion of a drive around the island, Roosevelt halted to review the regiment of recruits who are taking an eight-week course to prepare them for service with the armed forces.

Is Pleased To wind up the morning's share of his inspection the President boarded the Potomac again to cross Narragansett bay and get a view from the ship of the site of a $25,000,000 air base at Quonset Point.

The New London, Conn. submarine base and the Groton, Conn. plant of the Electric Boat Company, which makes submarines, were on his afternoon itinerary.

The President looked over operations at navy yards at Portsmouth, N. H., and Boston and an army arsenal at Watertown, Mass. on Saturday. Declaring himself pleased with what he had seen, he asserted that "it shows we are really getting into our stride" on the colossal defense program.

I wish to thank my friends for cards, flowers, fruit and personal calls, which I received during my recent hospital experience. Your thoughtfulness is deeply appreciated.

May Offer to Make "Deal"

One interesting rumor heard here is that the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee may offer Republic a horse trade when the bill comes in. If, for instance, Republic is due to pay $2,000,000, SWOC might suggest that the bill could be cut in half if Republic would sign a union contract.

That's pretty "iffy" so far. For one thing, it would be up to the union to get each of the 7000 claimants to agree to a cut in his compensation, and some of the boys probably wouldn't care much for it.

Franklin County Officers Ponder Mystery of Auto

Benton, Ill., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Franklin county officers pursued two courses today in their attempt to establish the identity of persons who wrecked and abandoned near this city last July 15 an automobile belonging to Walter E. Ebeling, missing manager of a German-language theater in New York City.

The officers asked the state bureau of identification and investigation to send a fingerprint expert here to examine the automobile and they appealed to southern Illinois newspapers to ask motorists who saw the damaged, gray Packard sedan and its occupants to contact the officers.

Ebeling disappeared from South Bend, Ind., and his blood-stained sport coat was found wrapped in his raincoat near Lafayette, Ind. five days before the automobile was found here. Indiana authorities have expressed a suspicion of foul play.

Find Dried Blood

Deputy Sheriff Francis Berry said today he and Harvey Hile of Lafayette, detective of the Indiana state police, found dried blood splashes inside the wrecked automobile but that a thorough examination could not be made until after fingerprints were taken.

Berry disclosed that a youth who lives near the scene of the wreck, told the officers that he and a companion offered aid to the occupants of the car but were ordered to "get away."

He said they left but saw the occupants of the wrecked car drive away in a second automobile. Berry said the companion of the youth now was in Chicago, and Chicago police had been asked to question him today.

Dixon Racqueteers Win Eighth Straight

The Morrison tennis aggregation failed to stop the local Dixon racqueteers yesterday afternoon as the locals went forth to try for their eighth consecutive inter-club match. Dixon won 5 to 4 after being surprised by the ability of the Whiteside county boys who were composed of lads in their teens and men past the half-century mark. One of the latter was Wilson McKim, former tennis champion of Japan.

Dixon won three out of five singles contests and lost two of the three doubles matches. The score was knotted at 4 apiece with the outcome hanging upon the result of the Quick-Kearney and Hull-W. McKim match. The former won 6-2, 6-3 to keep the locals' winning streak intact.

Results:
Singles: Covert (D) a 7-5, 7-5 victory over young Jim McKim; Smith (D) lost to Wilder 2-6, 6-8; Rols (D) beat Hull 6-2, 6-2; Joslyn (D) won over Randall 6-3, 2-6, 6-4; Kearney (D) lost to Bull 2-6, 2-6; Quick (D) beat McKim 6-2, 6-3.

Guard's Officers Surrender Civil Offices on Call

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 12—(AP)—Attorney General John E. Cassidy ruled today that state and local officials who are officers in the National Guard must automatically surrender their civil offices if the guard is called into the military service of the government.

Cassidy wrote the opinion for Adjutant General L. V. Regan of the Illinois National Guard who pointed out that several members of the legislature are officers in the Guard as are also various other officers in county and city governments throughout the state.

The Attorney General's opinion did not specifically cover the status of National Guard enlisted men who hold civil offices. Aides of Cassidy said Adjutant General Regan requested only a clarification of the status of the Guard officers.

Must be Mobilized
Regan's inquiry was prompted by legislation now before Congress to empower President Roosevelt to call the National Guard for army training. At present the Guard merely is a component of the army, and its members are not considered to be in the Federal service unless they are mobilized by the government.

The Attorney General's opinion cited the provision of the state constitution that "no person holding any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States shall hold any office of honor or profit under the authority of this state" and concluded:

"Members of the General Assembly and others holding elective and appointive offices under the state government or under a city or county government, abandon and vacate their civil offices upon entering the military service of the Federal government as officers of the National Guard."

"Constructive Resignation"
The state Supreme court twice has held, the Attorney General said, that acceptance of an army office is a "constructive resignation" of a state office.

One section of Cassidy's opinion indicated that enlisted Guardsmen as well as officers might be covered by the restriction against their continuing to hold civil office while mobilized. Cassidy wrote:

"When Congress has declared a national emergency and has authorized the use of armed land forces of the United States for any purpose, the President may order into the active military service x x x any or all units and members of the National Guard, and from the date of such order all persons so ordered into the active military service stand relieved from duty in the National Guard of their respective states x x x."

"Upon being relieved from active duty in the military service of the United States, all individuals and units thereupon revert to their National Guard status."

Rain May Cost Chicago White Sox Club $7,000

Chicago, Aug. 12—(AP)—The rain that spoiled Saturday's scheduled doubleheader with the Detroit Tigers will cost the Chicago White Sox approximately $7,000.

The two teams played five innings of the first game between showers, making the contest legal, before rain prevented further competition. Thus the 17,000 fans were entitled to no refunds nor did their rainchecks have any value.

As a good will gesture to the disappointed crowd, however, club officials announced the rainchecks would be honored at any future game of the White Sox. Since the contest was legal Detroit received its usual share of the receipts.

For each ticket presented at a future game the White Sox must pay the visiting club's portion as well as the government tax, and the league's share. Club officials estimated this would amount to about $7,000 if all the rainchecks are used.

Longer Hunting Season This Year Announced Today

Washington, Aug. 12—(AP)—Secretary Ickes announced today that the hunting season for ducks, geese, coots and jacksnipe had been extended to 60 days this year from the 45-day limit of last season.

Announcing the annual regulation for shooting migratory waterfowl, the secretary said that the extension was made possible by an increase in the population of these birds.

The regulations also lengthened the hunting day. Shooting may start at sunrise and continue until 4 p. m. for waterfowl and coot. Last year the hours were 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. Jacksnipe may be hunted from sunrise to sunset.

The bag limit on ducks remains at 10 a day.

Shorter seasons were provided, however, for woodcocks, and the bag limit on geese was reduced from four to three a day.

Shooting seasons on ducks, geese, coots and jacksnipe follow:

Northern zone from October 1 to November 29; the intermediate zone, October 16 to December 14; the southern zone from November 2 to December 3.

The northern zone comprises Maine, New Hampshire, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, and Montana.

The intermediate zone includes Vermont, formerly in the northern zone, and New Mexico, formerly in the southern zone, and the following other states: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Idaho, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington.

As in previous years, the number of waterfowl that may be possessed at any time is limited to two-days' bag but a new rule makes it possible to possess the legal limit for 20 days after the close of the season instead of 10 days.

The bag of canvassbacks, redheads, buffheads and ruddy ducks is limited to three a day, of any one of these species. The regulations also provide that not more than three of this entire group may be taken in one day. The possession limit on these birds also is double the daily bag limit.

The big limit on coots is 25 a day and on jacksnipes 15 a day with possession limited to not exceed the daily bag limit.

Closed seasons throughout the United States and Alaska are continued on wood ducks, Ross's geese and swans.

Hunters may use bows and arrows or shotguns not larger than ten gauge. The three-shell limit on repeating guns is continued. Use of bait or live decoys also is forbidden.

All persons over 16 years old hunting migratory waterfowl are required to have federal migratory hunting stamps.

The woodcock season was reduced from 30 days to 15 days with a daily bag limit of four and possession limit of eight.

Woodcocks may be hunted from sunrise until sunset as follows: North Dakota and Wisconsin, October 1 to 15; Indiana and Iowa, October 15 to 29; Arkansas, Kentucky and Oklahoma, December 1 to 15; Michigan, upper peninsula, October 1 to 15, and remainder of the state, October 15 to 29; Minnesota, September 16 to 29; Missouri November 10 to 24; Ohio, October 10 to 24.

The new regulations reduce the bag limit on mourning or turtle doves and whitewing doves from 15 to 12, while not more than 12 of either or all of these species may be taken in one day.

Adjustments in open season for these birds also have been made. Shooting hours are sunrise to sunset.

Open seasons on mourning doves include: Illinois—September 1 to September 20.

Experts Revise Opinions of Poles; Though Interned, They Want to Fight

By CHARLES FOLTZ
Bern, Switzerland—(AP)—Correspondent of the Associated Press—A lot of high-powered military experts, attached to Swiss legations as the military attaches of foreign powers, and some of the Swiss, too, have revised their opinion of Poland's army.

Three things contributed to the new turn of opinion.

First was the new realization of the power of Germany's war machine and its strength in the air.

Second was the way France cracked up along with Belgium, Holland and the low countries in 38 days of warfare. Poland alone lasted four weeks.

Third were the Poles themselves—even in internment.

On the nights from the 19th to the 20th of last June alone some 28,000 troops crossed into Switzerland in the region of the Franches Montagnes in the Jura.

First to cross were about 12,000 French troops of various branches of the army. Some had their rifles. Some didn't. Many had never even seen a German. Few had participated in active fighting. All came because the Germans cut off their retreat to the south.

Later came the main units of 18,000 Poles. They too had been cut off in their retreat, but they came across with all their arms and even most of their motorized equipment. They were disciplined. They had not only almost all seen Germans but their units were all heavily armed by casualties.

One Polish unit, about 2,000 strong, dashed up to the frontier with several batteries of 75's and 101's. A group of commanding officers conferred briefly with the Swiss command and were told that they would have to surrender both arms and ammunition.

Dashed Off Again
The whole unit turned around and dashed off again. The commanding officer explained that they "still had some ammunition left" and were going to "give it to the Germans".

They gave it to the Germans and the Germans gave them the same back again. They couldn't get through. They came into Switzerland with all their guns and rifles—but with not a shell, not a cartridge and with many casualties.

Poles, in little groups of three and four, have been drifting into Switzerland ever since the armistice. Some have come from channel ports all the way through German-occupied territory. They hide in farm houses or deserted town houses during the day and travel by night. They escape from internment camps.

Some of them no sooner crossed the border and were disarmed than they tried to escape again. Swiss police stopped four recently headed back into occupied France. Yes, they knew it was occupied, but they wanted to get to England—somehow. They didn't know how.

Win Admiration

In the internment camps they soon won the admiration of many Swiss by their discipline. In the beginning Swiss civilians took a special fancy to the French because French was one of Switzerland's three national languages and was far nearer than distant Poland.

Since then the Poles' discipline, cleanliness, morale and comradeship have won them many friends. Some Swiss, including a Swiss visitor to internment camps quoted in the Baseler Nachrichten, found that the French "brought along some of the decaying smell of social and political disintegration." Those French were not peacetime soldiers.

The Poles, a proud lot, range in age between 17 and 22. Most of them were miners, farmers and metal workers before the war. They were the first to offer to help Swiss peasants in the field.

Their one great sorrow is the French defeat. Most of them would go on fighting if they knew where to fight and how to get there. Many of them have crossed half of Europe and have heard nothing from their families since September.

Hold Special Services

They are almost all Catholics and hold special services each Sunday in the forests near their internment camps.

Originally many Polish units were placed in towns with French units, but, while the French considered the war ended and only wanted to get back home, the Poles wanted to fight somewhere, anywhere, and the two nationalities had to be separated.

Both the Poles and the Swiss authorities would like to know where they go from here.

Homecoming Fete at Compton Draws Many for Weekend

Declaring that the present administration step by step is establishing a communal society to replace the American form of government and the Constitution of the United States, Attorney S. C. Dixon of Yorkville, in addressing a large gathering at Compton Saturday evening, stoutly condemned New Deal policies. He was the principal speaker at the Republican day program which was observed Saturday with President Committee member Wilder Richardson in charge of the program. The Republican party, he said, was not the Republican party of a few years ago, but a party with new ideals and with an ideal leader in Wendell Willkie.

Several hundred people thronged the Compton park Saturday evening, the opening of the Homecoming celebration which was sponsored by the fire department of that place. Another fine program entertained a larger gathering Sunday afternoon and evening. Attorney Jacob Cantlin of Rock Falls was the speaker at the Democratic program which was scheduled for Sunday evening which marked the close of the successful event. Proceeds from the two day program are to be used in purchasing additional equipment for the Compton fire department. The members are planning on the purchase of a community fire truck as soon as the necessary funds are available.

TREASON HEARING TUESDAY
Pontiac, Ill.—(AP)—A hearing on a habeas corpus writ filed in an effort to obtain the release of three Chicagoans arrested here July 1st and charged with treason—as continued until tomorrow by Circuit Judge Ray Sessler. A reduction in the bonds from $5,000 to $500 each was ordered by the court on the three—Gertrude Parker, 24; Bernice Perdu, 18, and Philip Stewart, 22. They were alleged to have been circulating Communist party election petitions at the time of their arrest.

Hand-power Ferry Boats

Under the critical eyes of their officers, men of Co. A, 118th Rhode Island Engineers, launch broad-beamed, flat-bottomed assault boats on the Racquette River, near Norwood, N. Y. New Testament Starts Wilderness Library; Now Has 10,000 Volumes

By SAM G. HARRIS
Mt. Sherman, Ark., Aug. 12—(AP)—High in the Arkansas Ozarks, so far from the beaten path that a government census taker couldn't find him, a modest little man goes quietly about the task of bringing a vision to reality.

He is James Theodore Richmond, one-time newspaperman who, more than eight years ago, during a solitary session of prayer deep in the fastness of a subterranean cave, felt himself called to create "The Wilderness Library."

To the sturdy and fiercely loyal mountaineers who inhabit these parts, Richmond is variously known as "Twilight Ted," "The Wilderness man" or just plain "Ted."

His rugged log cabin, just 20 by 10 feet, is hidden in the forest on the side of Mount Sherman, so far removed from the rush of modern life that it has never heard the scream of a locomotive whistle.

Not far to the north is the famous shepherd of the hills country described by novelist Harold Bell Wright. Richmond bears an unmistakable resemblance to Wright's great character. But his chief accomplishment is "The Wilderness Library," founded in 1932 "for the free lending of good books, magazines and so forth to Ozark mountaineers not otherwise adequately reached because of the distance from existing libraries, bad roads, mountains and so forth."

Founded on Prayer

"To begin with," Richmond humbly explains, "Wilderness Library was founded on prayer, faith and one little book, the New Testament. This beginning is the keynote of the whole work, now and always."

"I prayed about this library in the subterranean quiet of a new cave I discovered below my home-stand. I prayed until I knew God heard and answered my prayer."

To his Bible, Richmond added six volumes he received from Editor J. Milam of a small weekly newspaper at Jasper, Ark. To Milam he gives much credit for assistance in increasing the size and scope of the institution.

The first shelves were erected in the cave where Richmond said he received his "vision." Later, because of the cave's inaccessibility, the library was moved to his cabin, where shelves are now cluttered with some 3,000 worn and dog-eared volumes. In all, Richmond estimated there are some 10,000 books on loan, in storage or otherwise available to his library.

News of the library's creation spread through the mist-filled valleys and over the white oak timbered slopes of the Ozarks on the mysterious "grapevine telegraph." Gradually it trickled into the outside world. Contributions of books came from national figures, anonymous friends and private citizens.

Mrs. F. D. R. Sends Books
Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sent him some books and a portable radio, of which Richmond said: "We had radio company nearly every night and afternoon and took the set on several barnstorming tours for winter night concerts to mountain homes that do not have radios."

The literary appetite of the mountaineers is omnivorous. "They like all kinds of books—fiction, history, religion, science—most everything published," the library founder says.

"Wilderness Library is so remote from the known United States that Uncle Sam's census-taker failed utterly to find and record us," Richmond declares.

Of himself, Richmond is loathe to talk. He worked as a newspaperman in Fort Madison, Iowa; Quincy, Ill.; Chicago and Paris.
